

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about $2, and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Easily done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (60 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 65 cents and gives you a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex with full directions for use. Do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Heres a Real Hair Grower That Shows Results In Few Days

If your hair is thinning out, lifeless, full of dandruff and your head itches like mad, it's a sure sign of the dangerous dandruff germ, and quick action must be taken to save what hair you have and start a new growth. Don't wait until the hair root is dead, for then nothing can help you, but get from your druggist four ounces of Parisian sage—it don't cost much and there is nothing you could use that's any better. Dr. Sangerbund, the famous Paris specialist, discovered that dandruff and falling hair are caused by a microbe—then came the discovery of the value of Parisian sage (liquid form) to destroy this germ, prevent falling hair and the formation of dandruff. A few massages with Parisian sage are all that are usually needed, and very soon you should be able to see the new hairs coming in. Parisian sage is women's favorite hair dressing, because it will not stain and makes the hair lustrous, soft and fluffy. Be sure you get Parisian sage (Giron's), for this brand is guaranteed. William L. Gokay can supply you.

MUST CUT DOWN ON WOOL

Council of National Defense May Check Its Manufacture

Action to be taken jointly by committees of the council of national defense and the leading wool manufacturers of the United States within the next fortnight is expected to put an end to the manufacture in this country for the period of the war of all-wool fabrics of practically every kind. The apparent unwillingness of Great Britain to release for American requirements a substantial part of the 1,000,000 pounds of Australian wool understood to be in the possession of the British government has convinced the Washington authorities and domestic manufacturers that drastic measures will have to be taken here if this government's requirements for military cloths are to be met.

The first meeting of government and mill representatives to take up the shortage problem meets in Washington on Wednesday. Charles Elsenman, chairman of the committee on supplies of the council of national defense, will preside. The delegates will outline plans for the conservation of wool by wider use of cotton, shoddy and other wool substitutes. Following the conference in Washington, a general meeting of the entire wool manufacturing industry of the country, will be held in this city Oct. 10.

"DADDY LONG LEGS"

Jean Webster's Great Work Splendidly Dramatized

Taunton theatre-goers expected much from the production of "Daddy Long-Legs," the attraction at the Park theatre on Saturday afternoon and evening, and the charming comedy captivated the immense audiences which enjoyed the production, leaving no one, it is certain, with any feeling of disappointment, as the big Metropolitan production was surely a pleasing theatrical event that Manager Donovan did well to secure.

Many stage productions appeal to some and not others. Once in a great while there come along a production that is universally well received and of such was "Daddy Long-Legs," dramatized from the entrancing book by Jean Webster and retaining all of its charm upon the stage.

It was a thoroughly wholesome and attractive comedy, devoid of unpleasant features, just a fairy tale come true, and altogether delightful love play, interspersed with very bright dialogue, and amusing situations, splendidly handled by an extremely well selected cast.

The story was a rather familiar one for the charms of the book from which it drawn have been widely recognized. The play opened with a scene in an orphan asylum. The little orphans evidently do not have the easiest time for the nation is of an ugly, scolding type. Then come the trustees, pompous for the most part and unyielding to the appeal of the children. Judy, one of the orphans, tormented and kept down to the bursting point, finally bursts forth and gives her opinions of the home in wonderfully forceful and appealing words which so influence a new member of the board that he arranges to have her sent to a fashionable college, with the proviso that Judy shall not know the identity of her benefactor. She then creates for the unknown the name of Daddy Long-Legs, a characterization drawn from a sight of his illumined by the lights of an automobile.

To express her gratitude Judy writes long and whimsical letters from school to her benefactor and Daddy Long-Legs becomes much interested in the little waif and ultimately falls in love with her. There are some complications, but these finally yield to a highly satisfactory ending for the orphan, the charitable trustee and the audience.

"Daddy Long-Legs" is a production that could be very easily spoiled. One would shudder to think what might happen to it in the hands of an incompetent company, it is so thoroughly and wholly dependent upon the delicacy of the acting, the understanding of the stage people, but the company which gave the play on Saturday could not be improved upon.

One of the outstanding and brilliant features in the play, was the work of Miss Francis Stirling Clarke. Particularly is she deserving of high praise for her portrayal of the role of Judy for she proved an altogether attractive heroine, so vivacious, so pretty, so appealing and so charming, that it is no wonder many in the hundreds who were charmed with her work Saturday lauded to the highest of the efforts of this young lady.

She has gifted talents, which promise her an early rise to stardom of the highest art, and a long period of time has past since a Taunton audience has had the opportunity to enjoy the work of a player with the ability possessed by Miss Clark, for she depicts the role made famous by Ruth Chatterton in a manner truly to the point and with wonderful conception. Miss Clark scored a heavy triumph with her audiences Saturday and her type of acting is the sort that leads to fame in the theatrical world.

Edwin Brandt, as the generous trustee, enacted a difficult role with ability and distinction, and gave fine support to the talented leading lady. The other members of the company had a fairly good scope into which they might display their ability and all succeeded in admirable fashion. Productions of this sort should always draw generous clientele, and "Daddy Long-Legs" was one of the best shows of the season at the Park, an opinion that will be shared by any who witnessed the play. This same company is coming to the Bennington opera house Thursday evening, Oct. 4.
